What to do on Sleep Over Night...

- Collect other stuff: Raid the bathroom for baby powder and a powder brush or powder puff or cotton balls or cotton swabs. While you're at it, get a flashlight.
- Set up an audio cassette player so you can all listen to the spine-tingling ghost stories.
- Prep the kitchen for your treat-making.

Ready? Set? It's time to Go Ghoulish!

GET READY

- The Ghostess with the Mostess will now put a little oval label on each Monster Makeup tray. Important: Have each girl write her initials on her tray's label NOW. It is not smart to share makeup with friends, so keep track of your own makeup trays tonight!
- See the little flipper thingie on the top of the tubes? Grab hold and twist it off the first tube—CAREFUL don't SQUIRT it! (If the plastic won't snap off, ask a grownup to snip off the tip with scissors.)
- Start with the first tray: Squirt a little bit of makeup into the well on the tray by the words that describe Red, or Black, or White, or Green.
- Finish prepping the first tray, and do the rest, one for each ghoul.

GET SET

- Grab a ghoulfriend partner. But no mirrors! Your friends can see what you look like, but you can't.

GO GHOULISH!

- Create a Corpse! Use your twisted imagination and the Makeup to show us what your ghoulfriend will look like six feet under.
- Be sure to add Tattoo stickers in strategic places.
- For real staying power, brush or puff baby powder over her face. Besides "setting" the makeup, it gives her a nice ghostly look!
- Note: Red makeup is not intended for use around the eyes.
- Your turn! Now your ghoulfriend makes you up. Remember, no looking in the mirror.
- When everybody's made up, it's story time. Ready? Turn off the lights...turn on the tape and listen to "Jennifer's Story"
- Wait until the end of Jennifer's Story. Then grab a flashlight, stick it under your chin, and look in a mirror.
- After the stories, wash off all makeup with soap and water.
