

BOMB DISPOSAL

Expert technicians in their field, each member of the B.D.U. must be capable of arresting any kind of high explosive threat. Whether the hazard be troop-obstructing land mines, live missiles or terrorist-placed bombs, the Bomb Disposal Unit works diligently to remain a step ahead of the ever-advancing technology utilized by terrorists and bombers. In addition to improved bomb suits capable of withstanding a direct impact of more than 4 pounds of dynamite, the B.D.U. incorporates specially-trained dogs capable of sniffing out any known explosive substance. They use a variety of devices such as robots and bomb trailers to more safely diffuse extremely high-risk jobs. Many of the B.D.U.'s methods and tools remain top secret in order to keep the advantage out of the enemy's hands. Constant research and development regularly update the Bomb Disposal Unit with the most effective anti-terrorist tools available. When innocent lives are at stake, nothing can be left to chance, and no element can be left unchecked.

It takes a special individual to put his life on the line by seeking out and dismantling explosives. Almost all bombs are unique in some way, so the Bomb Disposal Unit member is never quite sure what potential surprises are in store. The job involves intense training, the ability to think quickly and adapt to new situations in a flash—and the job description gets more dangerous every day. Terrorists quickly become more creative and clever in their schemes, putting more lives at stake. But because of the heroic efforts of the Bomb Disposal Unit, we are in good hands.

INSTRUCTIONS

Place "warhead" on to trigger so that posts fit into slots.

Push "warhead" down and turn it slightly in the direction of the arrow until it stays in the down position.

Starting at the top, insert the side panels into place.

To DISARM the "bomb" turn the "warhead" all the way in the direction of the arrow until it stops. Lift off the "warhead."

To DETONATE the "bomb" turn the "warhead" all the way in the opposite direction until the side panels blow off.
